

Looking For Dental Jobs?

Written By Dental Workers.com

Hello students, graduates and affiliates who are looking for dental jobs! Please, have a seat in the Dentalworkers chair. No bib is necessary for these appointments, because we provide treatment for the other side of your professional life—

Dental Career and Office Management

What is Dentalworkers.com? It is an internet resource where dental employers place classified job ads and dental workers post their resumes. The ads and resumes are automatically matched and connected, allowing employers and workers to search for prospects around the world in an efficient and timely manner.

Speaking of matching and connecting, Dentalworkers will be running its “Match Game!” for the first time at the AGD/ADAA Annual Session in Anaheim, California, July 8th to 10th. Whether you are an employer or worker, stop by booth #305, and tell us what job position you are hoping to fill and where. We will provide you with a sticker identical to one given to an employer or worker at the convention who is looking for the same position in the same area.

When you find the person with the matching sticker you will receive a great Dentalworkers prize. More importantly, as an employer, you will have found a potential new employee, or, as a worker, you may have found a new boss!

Attract Dental Candidates

Outside of trade shows, Dentalworkers.com is constantly attracting qualified candidates as the exclusive job board for the Warschaw Learning Institute, American Dental Assistants Association, Dental Assisting National Board and American Association of Women Dentists.

Dentalworkers.com also works with the Hispanic Dental Association, and has become AGD PACE certified.

If you have questions about any practice/career management issues, please email mail@dentalworkers.com.

And remember: Dentalworkers gets the job done!
